

Hi XXX

I hope you and your family are safe and well.

In any other year, you will have been nearing the end of your examinations at this point. Instead, huge numbers of you have been completing the 'Get Going' tasks and activities for your chosen subjects, on the New Starters course pages (www.reigate.ac.uk/new-starters-courses). These activities will give you a more detailed idea of what you can expect in each subject you are interested in. Hopefully, you will be able to complete them in time for our next stage, which will be our Introductory Day.

Introductory Day will take place virtually on Tuesday 30 June. During the day, you will begin to experience what it will be like to be a student at the College. You will hear from students and staff and find out about the activities and events that make the College unique. Although the day is designed to answer any queries you might have, if you have a specific question that you or your parents would like answered, please email us at intro-day@reigate.ac.uk and we will either answer those on the day or come back to you after the event via email.

In the evening of Tuesday 30 June, your parents will be invited to virtually join me and the other members of the senior team, for a live presentation and question and answer session. Again, questions can be submitted in advance using intro-day@reigate.ac.uk. We will then try to address as many of your questions as possible during the event.

I will be sending you further details of both events later next week. Have a great weekend.

Nick Clark
Principal